

As a result of the positive work of organizations like Hekhsher Tzedek, kosher consumers are becoming more educated and aware about where their meat comes from. Many families are looking to learn more about ethical animal production, and to purchase kosher meat and poultry that supports sustainable animal production, treats farmers and workers fairly, and improves the health of families and communities.

- We have been working for the past four years to provide 100% grass-fed, organic-raised kosher meat to our family, synagogue, and wider community. Until now we have not had the capacity to offer our products at a discount, but we are happy to be in the position to now offer the opportunity of an Affiliate Program to synagogues and schools. The program includes:
 - 3% of all sales purchased through a link provided by the synagogue
 - Sample newsletter article on the importance of this work
 - Sermon starter to introduce the program to the congregation
 - Lesson plan for teens

Source material for adult programming The program not only financially benefits the community, but requires very little staff time and aligns with your values.

KOL Foods connects. We connect folks to tradition, to the land, to a sustainable future and to good health. We allow folks to balance modern and ancient values. The kosher world is not free of bewilderment and fear surrounding our food, but at KOL Foods we come close. In an age when it takes an investigative reporter to clarify where your meat comes from, we tell its honest story and help you to tell it too. We are committed to kashrut, sustainability, transparency, animal welfare and good health.
